

It was the end of last year, close to midterms at school. My friends and I were excited, as it's a very important date for us, but we didn't expect it to end this way. When the big day arrived, we were all there. However, months beforehand, we had to register each participant. However, this didn't go very well.

When the day arrived, some people wanted to play but weren't on the list, and that's when the trouble began. Everyone had entered the court pretending to be the registered students, but we were discovered and given a huge scolding.

We were already disqualified, but we were still going to play. However, the other team did the same thing, and we were prevented from playing on both sides. But at least we had fun on the court afterward.
